KENNEDY, TITOV MEET — President Kennedy welcomes Soviet Cosmonaut Gherman Titov to the White House. Astronaut John Glenn is at left.

Titov Visits Big Bethlehem Steel Plant

Will Hit Caviar
Trail at Soviet Diplomatic Event

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet space explorer Gherman Titov takes a look today at American industrial power, then hits the caviar trail at a Soviet diplomatic reception.

Tourist Titov, after a day of sightseeing, speechmaking and receptions in Washington with U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., plans to plunge into more of the same red-carpet whirl with little change of pace but some change in scenery.

Visit Steel Plant
He travels by car to Baltimore to inspect the country's biggest steel mill—Bethlehem steel's giant Sparrows Point Works which has the capacity to turn out more steel and more tin than any other plant in the United States.

And the cool young Soviet who orbited the earth 17 times in a space ship will also have a chance at Sparrows Point to see the making of ocean ships.

Titov had been offered the opportunity to tour space installations — including Cape Canaveral, Fla. — where the United States launches its craft into the new ocean but the Soviet Embassy declined for him. U.S. officials said they thought the Soviets were worried that the United States might ask the Soviet Union to return the favor by letting Americans visit their space sites.

After the steel plant tour, Titov attends a luncheon at a Baltimore hotel, then hurries back to Washington.

Hays Blasts U.S. Spending In Congo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, pulled no punches when he lashed out recently at American spending in the Congo.

The Flushing Democrat described Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula as "a lemon" and a "character" interested in "self-glorification." Hays then characterized Adoula's associates as a "cheap bunch of thieves" and added that American taxpayers are footing the bill for Congo officials to pay themselves $3,000 a month.

The attack was leveled at Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland in recent critical questionings of administration policies before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Hays added:
"This is ridiculous, two-thirds of them (Congo officials) can't read or write, but they know how to get their hands on American dollars and you people (referring to Cleveland) know how to shovel it out."

Hays bitterly opposed both American direct aid to the Congo and United Nations operations there saying it would have been better "to let that place go up in smoke."

380 Persons Hurt, 100 Seriously

Four Arrested In Japanese Train Crash That Killed 163

TOKYO (AP)—An engineer and three other trainmen involved in the three-train wreck that killed 163 persons were arrested today on suspicion of criminal negligence.

More than 380 other persons were injured—100 seriously—in the chain reaction smashup.

The engineer, Norifumi Minakami, 38, was grief stricken before his arrest as he told newsmen he might have misread a railroad signal as giving the green go-ahead minutes before the crash.

"I don't know how I can apologize," Minakami said.

Announcing the arrests later, Shoichi Kimura, chief police investigator, declared: "We have determined that a green signal light was an impossibility."

Minakami's freight train jumped the tracks minutes after it passed a signal point on Tokyo's north side and sideswiped a commuter train.

Injured, stunned survivors poured out of the passenger train's windows and doors and huddled in the darkness on a nearby track. Then another commuter train roared into the wreckage, sliced through knots of survivors, jumped the tracks and plunged down an embankment into a row of houses.

It was Japan's second worst train disaster since World War II. No Americans or other Westerners were reported among the victims.

Minakami said he was sure he got the green go-ahead signal "but it might have been my misunderstanding because the accident took place—which could never have occurred if the light was green."

Railway President Cries

President Shinji Sogo of the Japan National Railway wept as he told newsmen the accident was caused by "the carelessness of our officials." One of his assistants said the freight train passed through a red light.

"It rained people," said one man who lived near the wreck.

Tadashi Miyano, who lived below the embankment, rushed outside when he heard the first crash.

"While I watched, I saw the second train come rushing into the scene," he said. "I saw a coach go tumbling down the embankment and smash right into my house. The roof flew off and the whole house crumpled like dust."

Identification of the dead was slow. Many of the mangled bodies were trapped in the twisted steel and splintered wood of the three trains or hurled far from the tracks.

The railway said it would follow the Japanese custom of paying condolence money—$167 to

Reb General Longstreet's Widow Dies

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Helen Dortch Longstreet, widow of Confederate Gen. James Longstreet, fighter for things in which she believed, Southern beauty and World War II airplane factory worker, is dead at 99.

She had hoped to reach 100 but the end came quietly Thursday in Milledgeville State Hospital. Mrs. Longstreet never liked to talk about her age, but her niece and only survivor, Mrs. R. H. Rumph of Atlanta, said she was born in Carnesville, Ga., April 20, 1863.

In failing health for 10 years, she entered the state mental hospital in 1957. Doctors described her case as mild and said she seemed perfectly happy.

Mrs. Longstreet attended Breau College at Gainesville, Ga., and there met Longstreet's daughter by his first wife, Marie Louise Garland who died in 1889.

On Sept. 8, 1897, she married Longstreet at the old governor's mansion in Atlanta. He was 76 and she 34.

Her greatest fight was a battle to clear her husband "of any accusation wrongfully made against him that he failed to carry out Lee's orders at Gettysburg." She contended he had been cautious, nothing more.

Longstreet was second in command to Lee of the army of Northern Virginia. He was described as immovable in the battles of Williamsburg, First Manassas, Second Manassas and Antietam.

Elementary Building Planned

United Will Get New School If Bonds Pass

Erection of a new elementary school building at United School is planned if voters in that district approve a $298,000 bond issue at Tuesday's primary election.

Lower grade classrooms in particular are bulging at the seams. Walter Blythe, president of the Board of Education, reports there are 16 home rooms with 35 or more pupils. Nine rooms have 40 or more and three have 43 or more. The recommended maximum in a classroom for the best teaching performance is 30, although fewer is preferable, educators agree.

Bonds will be retired over a period of 23 years if the issue is approved.

To alleviate the crowded situation, the board proposes a separate elementary building with a multi-purpose room and a minimum of eight classrooms. Six extra classrooms are needed at the present time and the other two rooms would take care of the increasingly larger annual enrollment of pupils, Supt. Dale Gates explains.

The all-purpose room would serve as a school cafeteria, complete with kitchen, and auditorium. Offices for the principal, nurse and supervisors would be provided. The well drilled last year would furnish water.

The board has selected a site across the Rt. 9 highway from the present school for the proposed new building which would house first and second grades. There is enough space on the site to allow for future expansion as it is needed, the board says.

Officials report that one of the high school rooms is now being used by a sixth grade class and the enrollment in the high school, which is now 350, is mounting each year. In three years, they estimate, there will be 400 pupils when the present second, third, fourth and fifth grades are in high school, the number will

Rusk Declares Reds Lull West On Berlin Crisis

Presents NATO
Delegates With Cold War Review

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, seeking approval of all the United States' North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies for further probing talks with the Soviets on Berlin, said today the Soviet Union currently wants the West to think no Berlin crisis is pending.

Speaking at the spring meeting of NATO Rusk warned that the idea of no crisis was the impression the Soviets wished to make. Even if true, he added, there was no way of determining whether it was permanent or only a temporary shift in Soviet maneuvering.

But Rusk said the West should take advantage of the Soviet attitude regardless.

Present Eweeping Review
An American source said Rusk presented the foreign and defense ministers conference a sweeping review of cold war problems, stressing Berlin, nuclear testing and disarmament.

He said the United States was ready to sign a nuclear test ban treaty at any time, but saw no possibility unless the Soviet Union was willing to grant necessary inspection.

Rusk said the U.S. test series will continue. He also saw every prospect the Soviet Union will soon resume testing.

He told the NATO ministers the failure to obtain a test ban treaty was considered by President Kennedy as the biggest disappointment in his first year in office. The ministers also will examine conditions of a new U.S. plan to give all the NATO allies a voice in the employment of nuclear arms against a Communist onslaught in Western Europe.

Outlines Berlin Talks
A conference source said Rusk outlined the Berlin talks he has had in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin and his plans to continue them. Implicit in his report was a bid for the support of the smaller allies.

The other big powers—France, West Germany and Britain—gave him their backing to continue the talks seeking to determine Soviet willingness to reach at least an interim arrangement on Berlin.

Rail Wage Hike Flayed

Both Sides Rip Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Non-operating rail unions and railroad executives today criticized a public board's recommendation to President Kennedy that 450,000 union members get a $100-million annual pay increase.

The union spokesmen, describing as deplorable the board's recommendation Thursday of a 10.2 cent hourly average increase, thought it was too low. The rail leaders said it was too high.

G. E. Leighty, chairman of the committee representing 11 unions of nonoperating rail employees—those engaged in service and maintenance as contrasted with engineers and other operating personnel—said the proposed pay increase "departs from all recognized standards of justice in wage determination."

He repeated his charge that the board in advance by declaring last month that a wage increase meant a rate hike.

The unions, whose workers average $2.42 an hour, had sought a 25 cent increase.

The estimated $100-million cost of the 10.2 cent increase compares with a net income of $382 million reported by all U.S. railroads in 1961.

Said Wayne Johnston, Illinois Central president: "Where are we going to get it? It's worse than the steel settlement."

Ben Heineman, chairman of Northwestern Railway, called the recommendations "a very severe blow to the industry. It is difficult to see where we'll get the money."

In an apparent allusion to President Kennedy's stated desire that wage settlements generally conform to productivity increases, Leighty said in his statement:

"To conform to that policy would have required a wage increase for these railway workers much greater than that which the emergency board recommends. Railroad labor's productivity has risen much faster than the general national average."

Kennedy carefully refrained from endorsing the board's report order a walkout at the end of the no-strike period.

The emergency board, headed by labor arbitrator Saul Wallen of Boston, roundly criticized the rail industry and unions for poor bargaining records in past years.

The board's recommendations: 1. A four-cent hourly pay boost dating back to Feb. 1. On top of this would come an increase effective May 1 of 2½ per cent, which averages out at about 6.2 cents in addition to the 4 cents, making the 10.2-cent total.

The unions had asked for a 25-cent hourly raise. The industry had called for a 20 per cent pay cut in many pay categories, and no pay change in the balance.

2. A moratorium against the unions seeking further wage in-

Texas Tycoon Faces Charges

Estes' Financial Empire Crumbles

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes said last year he was worth $50 million. Today his financial empire has collapsed and criminal and civil charges mount.

National finance companies, the federal government and plain dirt farmers in Texas are trying to recover from a series of jolts handed them by the 37-year-old man who gained the title of "boy wonder of West Texas agriculture."

Investigations continue along four general lines—his dealings as the world's greatest distributor of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer and tanks for the substance, cotton allotments on lands he controlled, his relationship with Department of Agriculture and other federal officials, and his vast grain storage operations.

A congressional investigation is under way. A federal grand jury already has indicted him for fraud. Eight criminal indictments for felonious theft have been returned against him by a grand jury in his hometown of Pecos, Tex. Another grand jury at Amarillo, Tex., is expected to receive new evidence soon. Scores have filed suits totaling millions, some trying to obtain money from Estes, others trying to voice contracts with him.

His entire financial affairs are in the hands of a receiver who is being required to post bond of $10 million.

The Estes empire began wobbling when a group of lending companies called him to a super-secret meeting in Dallas. His empire crashed three days later when he was jailed under federal fraud charges. Lending companies claimed he bilked them of $24 million. Estes himself said he owed $32 million and had assets of $20 million.

Estes, a Church of Christ elder and minister, has issued no de-

Kennedy Says U.S. Must 'Trade Or Fade'

President Appeals
Again for Passage
Of Tariff Measure

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Kennedy beckoned to America today to spurn timidity and lead the free world into a genuine Atlantic Partnership of expanding, two-way international trade.

The choice confronting the nation in May 1962, Kennedy said in a prepared address, is "to trade or fade."

'More Trade, More Jobs'

More trade, the President insisted, will mean more jobs, more national security, and a bulwarked foreign policy. And the tools to obtain them, he said, are in a legislative kit—his proposed trade expansion law now before Congress.

The arguments were old ones, but the phrases were new and so was the setting for them—a new $10-million wharf in America's third greatest port.

"I know of no occasion," Kennedy said, "where the topic and the location of a presidential address have so neatly fit together."

The President flew down from Washington to make the address, accept a key to the city, and then fly on to Eglin Air Force Base in western Florida to watch the Air Force display its might.

Once more in his New Orleans speech, Kennedy spelled out what he considers some old and new economic facts of life which, he said, require America's moving ahead.

"For what we are moving to—

Youth Sentenced For Knife Assault

LISBON — Ronald Hellman, 20, of Youngstown, was sentenced to 1-20 years in the Ohio State Reformatory by Common Pleas Judge Raymond A. Buzzard Thursday afternoon. Hellman's request for probation was refused.

Hellman pleaded guilty to cutting with intent to wound his former girl friend, Frances Griffith, Nov. 14, in New Waterford, and had been sent to Lima State Hospital for a period of observation. Testifying in his behalf Thursday were his uncle, Robert S. Hay, Mahoning County Deputy Larry Sene and Rev. Arthur Harmon of Boardman.

Testimony showed Hellman had been involved in two other knife incidents.

Miss Griffith testified she became afraid of Hellman after their plans for marriage had fallen through. She said that once while she was staying with her sister in Youngstown Hellman had threatened to shoot her.

Woman Wakes to Find Man Diapering Baby

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The hour of 1:45 a.m. is an odd one in which to be awakened in your home by the sound of a strange voice singing.

But that's what happened to Zelma R. Brewer of Omaha Thursday.

Mrs. Brewer told police she awoke to hear a man singing. She followed the sound to her kitchen. There she found a young man changing the diapers of her one-year-old daughter.

Quickly the young man explained he had heard the child crying as he passed by and had knocked on the door. When there was no answer, he crawled in a window.

Then, he said, he began singing as he changed the baby.

With that he handed the child to the mother and left via the kitchen door.

IBOP Backs Child Levy, Sen. Sargus

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters today asked its members to support a levy for maintenance of the Retarded Children's School at Elkton, one of three countywide issues on the ballot at the primary election Tuesday, and announced its endorsement of State Sen. Edmund A. Sargus of St. Clairsville for renomination.

The union explained in its official newspaper, The Potters Herald, that the levy of two-tenths of one per cent will provide for continuation of the school, in which three classes now serve 36 children from all parts of the county. Another class is needed now and a fifth will be required within a year to meet new enrollment, it said.

In endorsing Sen. Sargus, the IBOP pointed out he was named "one of the two outstanding freshmen senators by his colleagues and the press." A Democrat, he is seeking a second term. Sen. Sargus and Sen. Arthur Blake of Martins Ferry, also a Democrat, now represent the 20th and 22nd District. Because of periodic reapportionment the number of district seats will be cut to one in the next biennium.

With headquarters in East Liverpool, the potters union has 17,000 members.

WILLIAM H. WEIR

County Commissioner

A MAN TO CONSIDER

After acquiring his education which included advanced courses in economics, political science, sociology and history, William H. Weir became a journalist serving eight years with the Hearst newspapers. He gave up his newspaper career to travel as a lecturer speaking on a variety of subjects including child guidance, good government and mental health. As a staunch Republican he never refused his party's call to speak in support of its principles and candidates, reaching a peak in 1940 when he campaigned in 17 states. Being a member of the family well known in the tri-state area as wallpaper and paint retailers he opened their Salem store in 1948 and still operates it. He has served on the board of trustees of the Columbiana County Mental Health Association ever since it was organized and helped draft its original constitution and by-laws.

HE SAYS EXACTLY WHAT HE THINKS

Those who have heard Mr. Weir speak in behalf of his own candidacy during this campaign have been amazed at his audacious frankness. His out-spoken manner, his refusal to temporize or evade and his fearless denunciation of those he believes to be in the wrong convinces his listeners that something new is happening in Columbiana County politics. He has steadfastly ignored the advice of those who urge him to be more diplomatic claiming that he wouldn't want to be elected county commissioner under false pretense.

THIS IS HIS PLATFORM

The long-suffering taxpayer has had just about all he can stand. Public officials (and those aspiring to public office) had better decide to make the appropriations they are now receiving do the job even if it means effecting stringent economies.

We cannot afford a new county home. We can put the present home in condition to meet State requirements for about one fifth the cost of a new one.

Until the property owners have been told exactly how much higher their taxes have already become as a result of the recent county-wide reappraisal of real estate values we should not be asked to further increase our taxes an unknown amount by supporting either the .8 mill operating levy or the .7 mill county home levy. Mr. Weir suspects a conspiracy of silence designed to hold back the bad news on the reappraisal to enhance the chances of passage of these two levies.

The .2 mill levy for retarded children deserves support because it will be a more efficient way of handling a problem we now deal with in a hit and miss manner.

We can be justly proud of our sheriff and his department. The need to economize should not apply to this office which is already dangerously under-staffed.

Whenever an industry leaves our county we lose tax revenue. Instead of trying to squeeze more from the already flattened pockets of our home owners we should concentrate on creating a climate friendly to new industries. We should increase our sources of taxation instead of our rates of taxation.

The only legitimate reason for any government to exist is to serve the people. We must never permit it to become our master.

You can strike a solid blow for good, efficient, economical government by helping nominate and elect . . .

She Says Corps 'Ran Her Ragged' Peace Corps Denies Training Charge by Ousted Woman

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Peace Corps official says the training program for overseas duty is not designed to turn out Tarzans or Janes—despite the charge of a 65-year-old widow that she was ousted for refusing to do pushups and run a mile before breakfast.

Janie Fletcher, of Panhandle, Tex., said the Peace Corps ran her ragged at its training camp in Arecibo, Puerto Rico, and finally dropped her from a group bound for duty in Brazil because she objected to the physical training program.

The Peace Corps denied Mrs. Fletcher was pressed to undertake physical training beyond her ability.

"Obviously a woman of her years would not be expected to perform like the younger people," Timothy J. Adams, acting chief of public information, said Thursday night.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver said Mrs. Fletcher's dismissal was not due to her inability to take part in physical conditioning.

"There were other reasons and these were discussed with her," he said. "One of them was that of all candidates for Brazil she had the lowest language facility."

Mrs. Fletcher told a different story—and she told it in a letter to her senator, John G. Tower, R-Tex. She said she was dropped because "the staff at the camp disliked me because I objected to the training. There could have been no other reason."

Adams said the Fletcher matter "is closed as far as we're concerned." But Tower demanded an investigation before the Senate votes on the corps $63.75-million budget.

Mrs. Fletcher said younger Peace Corps volunteers at the Puerto Rico camp stayed up until the wee hours and did much drinking. She said she was "cursed and shoved beyond my strength" in a program that "would do justice to any army training."

Shriver said he couldn't imagine anyone in the training camp cursing the Texas schoolteacher. He said night discussion groups were allowed to drink beer, but there was no moral laxity.

He said Peace Corps selections are based on merit, not politics, race, religion or age. "We have said from the beginning that Peace Corps standards would be high," Shriver said. "They have to be and we don't intend to relax them because of political pressure."

Adams said Mrs. Fletcher was one of eight trainees dropped for various reasons from the Brazil-bound group.

School Levy Questions, Answers

The Salem Board of Education and Supt. of Schools Paul E. Smith have compiled a list of the most common questions raised in respect to the 8.5-mill school renewal levy on the May primary ballots, and their answers to them. Several of the questions and answers will appear periodically in The Salem News as a public service. The board and Supt. Smith solicit other queries residents may have on the levy. They may be sent to Supt. Smith at the Junior High School.

Q—Why is the renewal necessary?

A—The money produced by the 8.5 mills—approximately $390,000—is about 26 per cent of the total school budget. Without this renewal, not enough money would be available to pay teacher and employee salaries, let alone to operate the buildings and to provide books, educational supplies and transportation. The renewal is essential to school operation.

Q—How much has the Salem School millage increased in recent years?

A—In 1959 an additional 1.9 mills was voted and in 1960 a 4.5-mill levy was added. The 4.5-mill levy was reduced to 4.0 mills at its last renewal, so that the total increase is 5.9 mills since 1953.

Q—How much money is presently produced by the 5.9 mills (which is the amount of millage increase in the Salem district since 1953) and where is it spent?

A—The 5.9 mills today produce approximately $273,190. Since 1953 total salaries in the system have increased by $607,803, and operating costs have increased $133,662 in those same years.

Additional help from the State Foundation Program and a growing tax duplicate have made up the difference between our increased local levies and the increased salary and operating costs.

3 Administrators To Be Named at Industrial School

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction plans to name three new administrators within the next week to head the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

"The three key men, under the jurisdiction of Supt. T. L. Fultz, will assume responsibility of three different rehabilitational divisions," John Ferguson, chief of the Division of Juvenile Research, said today.

He said the three divisions would include (1) boys attending school full-time, (2) those engaged in pre-vocational training, i.e., machinists, and (3) occupational work including farming and the like.

"The new administrators are being hired in conjunction with the new program," Ferguson said.

The juvenile chief pointed out that each administrator will be responsible for about 150 to 200 boys as well as all employees within their division. Illustrating this, he pointed out that the administrator in charge of those engaged in full-time school work would have jurisdiction over the school principal and cottage supervisors.

Another facet of the new program will include a unit separate from the three main divisions called the "specialized treatment service."

This unit, composed of professional people, i.e., sociologists and psychologists, will screen commitments from the Juvenile Diagnostic Center and place them in one of the three divisions.

According to Ferguson, the new concentrated program is designed to shorten the rehabilitation period for each boy. Under the present program the boys must remain at the institution approximately seven months. Between eight to ten boys each day are committed to the school, which now holds 630.

Freeman, indicted by the September 1961 grand jury, had been confined to Moundsville Penitentiary and was just released. His bond was set at $1,500. He is confined to the county jail in lieu of bond.

School Levy Renewal Is Vital

The continued good operation of Salem's public schools rests with voters' renewal of an 8.5-mill operating levy at the primary election Tuesday.

Designed to produce $393,000, the levy is a combination of 4.5 mills previously in existence and four of the "emergency" 4.5 mills voted in 1960.

The board had planned at that time to drop the provisional levy but, caught in a squeeze of rising costs like other businesses, found it necessary to combine the two into the present 8.5-mill proposition.

Its passage will enable the board to give teachers a general pay increase, meet general operating expenses and make continued improvements in curriculum and library services to the elementary grades. Both the teachers pay scale and the library facilities are below average, it is pointed out.

The school system can not get by without adequate funds any more than children could toss aside their textbooks and succeed. Voters' support of the levy, therefore, is quite clear and an obligation inherent with our compulsory program of education.

Concerning the teachers' promised pay boost, board members told the Rotary Club this week that this would be the last general increase for several years, and it is understood that if the county property tax reappraisal, effective next year, provides extra revenue for the schools, the voted millage will be cut proportionately.

Since education is one of our best bargains, your vote should definitely be "FOR" the school levy.

Coercive Bargaining Worse

There is this notable possibility about the direction Kennedy administration thinking is taking in labor-management relations:

If the emergency in the administration's relationship with the big steel concerns had not occurred, public sympathy might well be running strongly now in favor of its belief that government is the party most concerned in every large-scale labor negotiation.

President Kennedy's Labor-Management Advisory Committee, whose recommendations are independent of recent events, has concluded the government should have power to recommend settlements in labor-management deadlocks of major importance.

This would be a radical change from the Taft-Hartley Act, which restricted government to fact-finding. Another radical change would get rid of the Taft-Hartley provision for banning strikes on an industry-wide basis and make this important government authority applicable to vital sections of industries.

THESE RECOMMENDATIONS are in line with the Kennedy administration's thinking on the making of industrial contracts — that agreements between unions and managers are too important to be left to nonofficial persons.

The fact is, of course, that many industry deadlocks have been broken by unofficial "official" intervention, like Vice President Nixon's in the latest steel strike.

The further fact is that the government is either a participant or an observer in every important negotiation because of its responsibility for mediation.

And the conclusive fact is that the government is immediately and often drastically affected by every important large-scale agreement between management and labor. Everything from its revenue to its national defense is affected.

This is the way it has been ever since federal troops used to be ordered to the scene of strike disorders. All the Kennedy administration has been saying in effect is that if it's going to be this way, the federal government should make a business of stepping into all potential deadlocks early and dictating procedures that will protect the general welfare. But that's only one side of the story.

ANYONE WHO knows how the new idea would work knows the negotiators always would wait for the federal government to make the first proposal.

It would be almost like arbitration, and for this reason it will be scouted as cagily by unions as by management.

Both live in mortal terror of dictated settlements. They grant that collective bargaining, such as it is, can be bad, but coercive bargaining — ah that would be unbearable. It would be wage-fixing and price-fixing tied together in one package.

Judicial Nominations In Primary

Party nominations for the judicial contests that will be decided next fall are one of the heaviest responsibilities for voters in the primary elections May 8.

Although nominations are made in Democratic and Republican primaries, the fall election is nonpartisan. The candidates carry no party designation on the November ballot.

There is no contest in either primary for chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court. Carl V. Weygandt is unopposed in the Democratic primary for the right to seek a sixth six-year term as chief justice. In the Republican primary, Judge Kingsley A. Teft is unopposed for the right to run against Chief Justice Weygandt. Judge Teft is now serving his second six-year term on the Supreme Court.

FOR THE SUPREME COURT term beginning Jan. 1, 1963, another judge of the Supreme Court, John M. Matthias, is unopposed in the Republican primary and will run against James J. Mayer, unopposed in the Democratic primary. The latter is now sitting on the Common Pleas bench in Richland County.

For the Supreme Court term beginning Jan. 2, there are contests in both primaries.

Municipal Judge Richard T. Cole of Springfield is running against John F. McCrystal of Sandusky in the Democratic primary. In this race, Judge Cole seems to be preferable to his opponent on the basis of his present status as a second-term judge in Springfield.

Republicans must choose in their primary between Willard D. Campbell of Columbus, a former common pleas judge, and Paul M. Herbert, also of Columbus.

Mr. Campbell has run five times for the Supreme Court and is to be preferred in his contest with Mr. Herbert, a five-time lieutenant governor of Ohio. Mr. Campbell, who directed the work of the Ohio Bureau of Code Revision which compiled the state code now in use, is 61.

No One's Attacking the FBI

Here is a perfect example of the way identities can get criss-crossed when loose accusations are made.

When President Kennedy and his advisers hammered and tongued the steel companies to rescind a raise in tonnage prices, they hit the industry with everything they could lay their hands on.

Members of the Kennedy administration got on the telephone to use personal influence with old college friends and acquaintances. There was extensive personal persuasion along with official persuasion.

Part of the official persuasion caused certain agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to wake up a couple of newspaper reporters during the night to answer questions about statements by steel industry spokesmen. Critics of the episode believe the questions could have been answered during daylight office hours.

The incident left an impression in some quarters that the Kennedy administration, which conspicuously includes Attorney General Robert Kennedy, whose department contains the FBI, overplayed its hand in its angry reaction following the announced increase in steel prices.

Yet for saying this there now is an accusation being made that to say so is criticism of the FBI, which has done too much good work to be criticized.

What a criss-cross of identities

No one is accusing the FBI of overplaying the Kennedy administration's hand. Its agents investigate only what they are asked to investigate. Most assuredly they would not wake up newspaper reporters to answer questions in the middle of the night without having been ordered to do so. The FBI is everything its admirers say it is. No one's criticizing it.

Which still doesn't give a clean bill of health to the source of the order that caused some Americans to swallow hard and blink off the similarity to government agents in other lands who make a practice of getting people out of bed for questioning in the middle of the night.

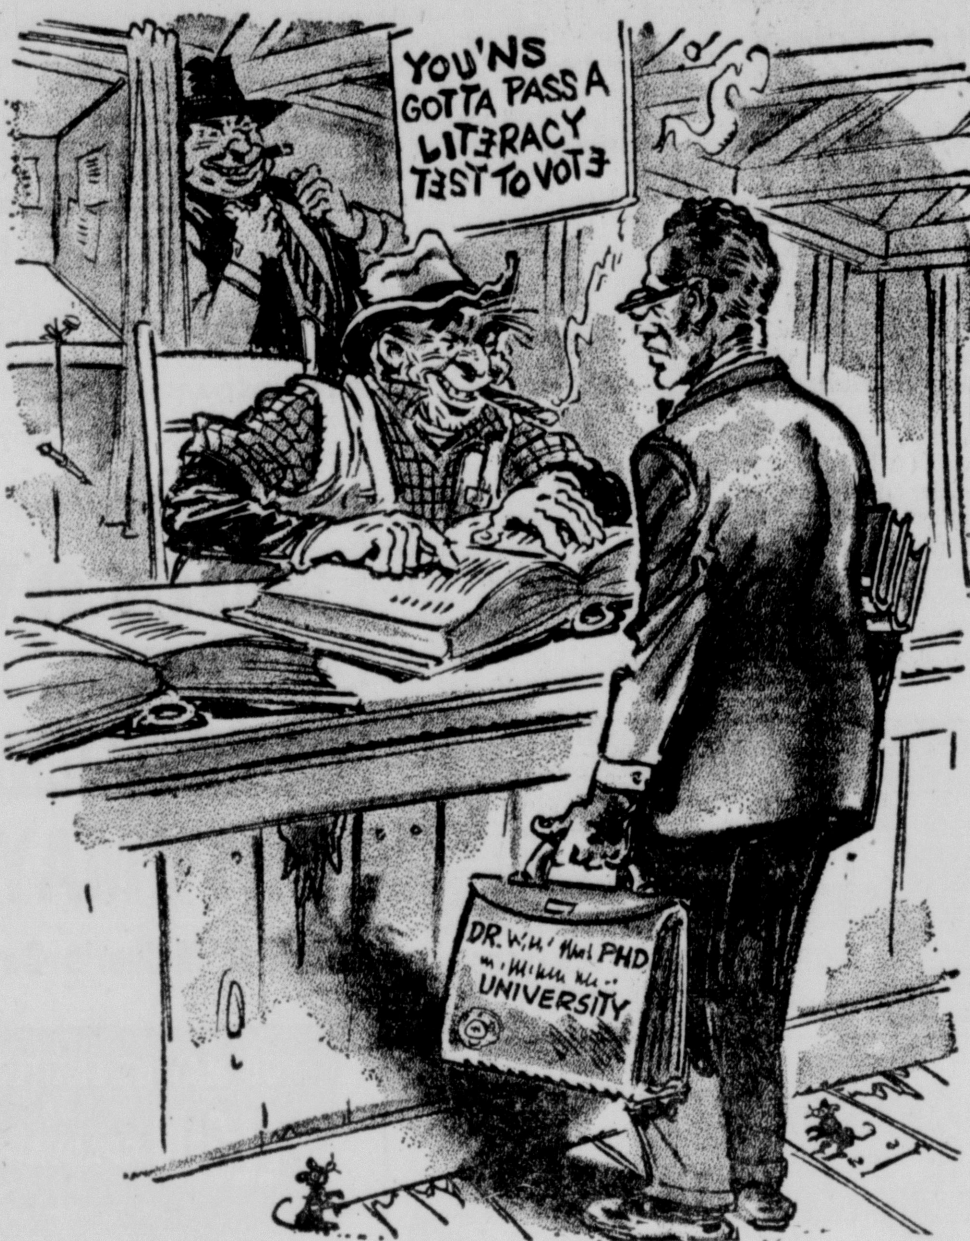

A Sound Idea

Men for years have been seeking an efficient way to turn sunlight into energy. Another promising line of research might be how to do the same with sound waves.

Today's Health, magazine of the American Medical Assn., estimates that one out of eight Americans snores. "This means that something like 23 million snorers, women as often as men, are producing a non-synchronous nocturnal cantata when they are unconscious."

Think of the boon to mankind if all that energy could be put somehow into storage batteries.

Sorry, Puhfesser, Looks Like You'all Done Flunked!

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Our men in Havana are, in their fashion, devoting themselves to a

Russian described as Chief Engineer Kirenko of the "Plant Projects."

He is the Soviet advance man for a project made doubly fascinating by the current thermonuclear explosions.

Kirenko is preparing sections of Cuba for a massive invasion of Soviet machinery—well over $250 million worth—early in July '63. When finally set up, this equipment will refine specialized nickel and handle cobalt—which Atomic Energy Commission people have just told me can go into the production of the deadliest of nuclear weapons.

Kirenko's technicians, dispatched from the office of the Projects Institute of Moscow's own nickel trusts, are scheduling two huge refineries. One of them will process nickel from the concentrated ore dug up in Moa.

KIRENKO'S problem is not the lack of metallurgical scientists.

His problem is the failure of the "marvelous revolution" — to use Che Guevara's recent phrase — to stop sabotage, arson and a quietly successful industrial guerrilla war by Cuban workers.

This is a war which has gone unreported except when sky-searing flames force black headlines on the Cuban press.

To obtain some of the statistics on this underground warfare, it has been necessary to go directly to a report delivered recently by Che Guevara himself.

He disclosed industrial disintegration — in the fields and factories. On April 13th — a black Friday for his Ministry of Industry — Guevara disclosed that only "three or four" of Cuba's 160 sugar mills are operating in any effective fashion. Thus 154 mills are not meeting even the lowest quotas set by the government for the processing of sugarcane.

He disclosed that these "three or four" are "efficient" only because "adequate political work has been done."

THIS MEANS the government has set up a system of political commissars similar to the old Soviet system. In effect, this is a secret police guard over the mills' actual management.

But even the handful of operating mills are slowed down regularly. Guevara spoke of "counter-revolutionaries" who have burned large tracts of uncut sugar cane. Other cane is rotting.

Where there is no "political" concentration, there apparently is no concentrated harvesting. Result: The mobilization of civilian and military manpower.

On March 27, for example, some 500 members of the Young Rebels were packed into trains for "glorious" work in Camaguey Province.

From a document once in the hands of the National Union of Sugar Workers, can be gleaned that exactly 3,076 "volunteer" workers have been put into forced labor. They are helping with the sugar crop in Mantanzas Province "for the remainder of the crop season." To them the revolution is not so "marvelous."

Nor is it ecstatic for the thousands who have been caught up in the "inventory of the labor forces." They are being pulled out of non-vital jobs and planted in the fields.

Workers in essential industries are required to "volunteer" for weekend work after their five days at their own tasks in the cities.

IF THEY OBJECT they may be permanently planted under the fields. But the vast sabotage and slowdown are no mere bucolic blights on the revolution.

Guevara has trouble with his plants. On March 28, Comrade Guevara called together his executive board of the Ministry of Industry.

He was disturbed. So disturbed that he reverted to a pre-Khrushchev type Sovietism. Guevara told his people to launch "debates based on criticism and self-criticism" in all Cuban plants.

Guevara said, "Discussions are to be expanded to include all levels for the purpose of determining deficiencies that might exist" in the ministry's jurisdiction.

This means industrial disintegration has set in in the factories as well as the fields. This means the revolution no longer can trust any of its working people.

This means the Russians will have to order more brutality to subdue the people. And even if they are finally beaten down, no one in the Communist hierarchy can ever again guarantee their new plants won't go up in flames.

What the free world has not the courage to do, the imprisoned workers of Cuba are doing — warring on their keepers.

Political Hypocrisy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

14th, 15th Amendments Never Ratified

The business of Congress has slowed down. The Senate is engaged in a filibuster, or lengthy debate, which represents a desperate attempt by a small group of dedicated men to save the Constitution from being violated by a majority who are seeking allegedly to protect civil rights.

If the vote to shut off debate, known as cloture, were to succeed in getting the two-thirds majority it requires, there is a 51 per cent majority ready to pass a bill which would take away from the states the right to set the qualifications for voters. This would be an unconstitutional act, and many senators who feel they must vote in favor of it for political reasons back home are secretly hoping cloture will fail and that the literacy measure will never get through both houses. Then they would presumably retain the favor of the minority groups even though the bill doesn't become law.

It's a transparent case of hypocrisy in public office. It couldn't happen if the American people knew all the circumstances. But the gap in communication between the people and their government is in some respects not much different from what it was nearly a century ago. Then, as now, a fraud can be perpetrated and the Constitution completely disregarded without encountering the protest that certainly would come if he people were told all the facts so that they could understand the issues.

Today, few people in the United States know, for instance, that the 14th and 15th Amendments — on which the whole controversy over civil rights laws is based — were never legally adopted.

Few people know that the Supreme Court of the United States has repeatedly dodged the issue and refused to consider any case involving the legality of the method used in ratifying those two amendments to the Constitution.

The alibi or excuse given is that these are questions involving the political departments of the government and what are termed political questions.

All the history books describing the events that occurred after the war between the States were over agree on the facts. Both Presidents Lincoln and Johnson took the position that the Southern states had never left the Union.

IN MAY 1865, after the surrender of the South, President Johnson issued a proclamation of amnesty and set up provisional governments in all of the Southern states. Constitutional conventions were convened in each, and new state governments and members of Congress were elected.

Before the end of the year, the new legislatures had ratified the 13th Amendment, which abolished slavery, and their action was accepted as formal ratification by legally constituted state governments.

When, however, the newly elected senators and representatives presented themselves at the opening of Congress on Dec. 4, 1865, they were refused admittance by the "radical Republicans," who were in control.

These same state governments continued to function through 1866 but declined to ratify the 14th Amendment, which had been proposed by Congress in June of that year.

The Republican party then pushed through in April 1867 the first of the "Reconstruction Acts." This divided the South into five military districts, imposed martial rule, and made ratification of the 14th amendment the price for restoration of civil government and full rights in the Union.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON vetoed the measure as plainly unconstitutional, but the bill was passed over his veto. Federal troops were stationed throughout the South and in one instance in a legislative chamber itself. Coercive tactics were used to set up rump legislatures, as white voters generally were disenfranchised.

At the point of the bayonet, the Southern states one by one "ratified" the 14th Amendment, until the requisite number had been obtained by July 1868.

Secretary of State Seward, who also had served in Lincoln's Cabinet and was an outstanding lawyer, hesitated to accept the "ratification" process as legal and publicly said so. Congress hereupon, by joint resolution, ordered him to proclaim the amendment to have been ratified. It had no right to do so.

The 15th Amendment was similarly adopted under virtually the same conditions.

Various attempts were made in the 1870s to get the Supreme Court to take cognizance of what had been happening, but to no avail. Since those days, the high court has merely assumed the legality of the two amendments because the ratification procedure itself had never been declared invalid.

Even within the last five years, efforts of lawyers to get the Supreme Court to consider this phase have proved fruitless, though the high court has taken cases with respect to controversies over the ratification of other amendments involving such points as denying the right of a state to rescind its approval even if it takes action before the requisite majority of three-fourths of the states has been attained for a particular amendment.

It's not too late for the 14th and 15th Amendments to be resubmitted to the states for ratification, if only to erase a disgraceful chapter in American history. It would be a fitting centennial celebration.

Cites School Traffic Danger

I cannot understand any parent in the United Local School District desiring something for his child that could result in the death or injury of that child.

If the school bond issue is passed at the Tuesday primaries, the proposed school building will be constructed on the opposite side of the road from the present structure, even though the ballot will not specify location.

Our County Traffic Safety Committee has warned against this as a potential traffic hazard, and a story to this effect was carried in The Salem News April 26.

The Federal and State Governments spend millions of our tax dollars in the interest of safety to eliminate right angle traffic crossings as illustrated by the entrances, overpasses, and exits on the turnpikes. How then can we possibly justify creating such a traffic hazard for our own children.

Mrs. Perry Whitacre,
R. D. 3,
Salem.

More Than Dollars, Cents

How much is a child worth? Those of us fortunate enough to have children of our own, know that it is impossible to determine a child's worth in dollars and cents. It isn't often one is given the chance to help retarded children have a future bright with hope instead of despair. This is exactly our choice when we are asked to approve the two-tenths mill levy for the Columbian School.

If this school were to help even one child to become a productive citizen, it would be well worth the cost. Presently this school is performing wonders, but it could become even more beneficial with the passage of this levy.

Mrs. Robert Campbell,
318 Woodland Ave.

Let's Build the Home

As county citizens we must accept our responsibilities to take care of our own welfare cases where we understand their needs. If we throw this responsibility on state or federal government, we take a step closer to becoming a socialist welfare state.

We can help prevent this by voting the necessary seven-tenths mill levy that the county commissioners seek for the new infirmary that must be built. Let's build it!

RD 3, Salem

But, They're Running

Is this the age of the reluctant candidate? Or is the lure of the governor's mansion so great that politicians just can't resist it—even against their better judgment?

Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle changed his mind after declaring formally he would not be a candidate for re-election this year.

Now Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus has run through a fast shuffle and decided to run again. Just a month earlier he had announced his intention to retire from politics to write a book about his side of the Little Rock integration controversy. He will be seeking an unprecedented fifth term.

If this were the year that President Calvin Coolidge had uttered his enigmatic statement — "I do not choose to run" — "That clinches it. He's a candidate."

McElroy, DiSalle Debate on Ohio Industrial Picture

By The Associated Press
Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy, using different sets of figures, battled before 600 Democrats in Painesville Thursday night over the question of industry leaving Ohio.

Here's the way the two rivals for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination backed up their contentions:

McElroy: "In the last 10 years, 137 industrial plants have left Ohio or have gone out of business." He described the state's condition as "economically retarded."

DiSalle: "In 1951 there were 93,868 employers listed by the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. Last month there were 101,153." The governor added there were 184,000 fewer persons unemployed in the state now than there were at this time last year.

Industrial and economic development of Ohio is its most urgent need, the attorney general asserted, saying it is the only solution to the state's financial problems.

"Vacant storerooms stand as gravestones marking the unhealthy business conditions in Ohio," McElroy declared.

"Where are the facts that industry is leaving Ohio?" DiSalle asked. "Maybe some employers have left, but the net is good."

McElroy also criticized DiSalle about water pressure at the state's $1.75-million Sagamore Hills Children's State Hospital on the Summit-Cuyahoga County line. He called it a "fiasco and shameful waste of taxpayers' money."

DiSalle said the site for the hospital was chosen in 1957, two years before he became governor. He added that McElroy approved the construction contract in 1959, shortly after taking office.

Gubernatorial aspirants weren't the only ones on the political trail Thursday night.

In Columbus, State Sen. Ross Pepple, seeking the GOP nomination for U.S. senator, accused the Kennedy administration of appeasement in dealing with the Russians in the hassle over atomic bomb tests.

"Kennedy has put the U.S. in the position of begging from Russia," Pepple charged. "So the result of all this appeasement is that it makes the U.S. look like a bad boy who is apologizing for what he is about to do. It also made us look like a weakling."

In Akron, another Republican hopeful for the Senate bid, Charles Fry, said republicans must capitalize on the issue of creating new job opportunities as opposed to the Democratic program of increased federal works.

ANIMAL SHOTS — Dr. William H. Lawrence is injecting a repellent to discourage animals from eating young trees. It's all a part of an experiment to protect Douglas fir trees planted in tree farms by the Weyerhaeuser Co.

Stunned Spouse 'Madder Than ---'

Jaynie Shops for Divorce; Hargitay's Last To Know

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield had her first big fight with her husband Thursday, stormily told him she was going out shopping—but didn't tell him she was shopping for a divorce. "I still don't believe she did it," said her stunned musician spouse, Mickey Hargitay, early today. He spent the night under the same roof with his bosomy wife.

That togetherness, unique even for Hollywood, led some observers to believe that the divorce won't take.

And Jayne's own words, breathlessly delivered, accented that belief.

"Our differences are really minor but maybe because they are the only ones we have ever had they seem bigger than they are," she said.

"I'm sure we'll work it out," Hargitay first learned of the suit from newsmen.

"Jaynie's out shopping. Why, we're waiting supper on her," said Hargitay—usually not the last one to know.

By suppertime, Jayne indeed had come home, sneaked in a back door of her huge pink and white home.

Then she secluded herself in her bedroom and first called her press agent.

Then she summoned Hargitay, 33. He was both hurt and angry when he came out a few moments later.

"She won't say much. I guess she doesn't want to talk with me. I love her very much but she's making me madder than hell," he said.

Then the press agent ushered in a group of reporters and photographers.

Before long Jayne, 28, appeared on an inside balcony of her house, which is decorated in early Mae Murray style.

She wore a gold lame slack outfit that looked as if it had been sprayed on that famed 40-22-35 frame. Each newsmen got a friendly handshake as she called each by name.

"We have had differences. We're not used to having them and I guess it comes as a big shock," she said.

"I'm no different from any other married woman. I really believe in a happy marriage and Mickey and I have been deliciously happy. We hope we can work it out."

Her surprise divorce action was taken in Santa Monica Superior Court.

He'd Like New Task: Working on 'Her' bones

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three months ago a sophomore student, Bill Brunk of Bath High School just outside Lima, was given a biology assignment.

His job: To assemble the skeleton of a monkey. Hundreds of bones, large and small, had to be put together.

Working with a fellow student and a college biology textbook, the ingenious sophomore meticulously went to work. At first it went slowly, then things started falling into place.

Finally, after weeks of work, every bone was in place, the skeleton was placed on a large board and the masterpiece was gingerly placed in the family car.

Then Mrs. Brunk took the back roads at around 20 miles an hour, gasping at every hard bump. The skeleton made the trip unscathed and when the amazed biology teacher saw the work he suggested showing it to the superintendent.

The instructor carefully picked up the board and headed for the front office, then handed it to the superintendent's secretary.

She dropped it.

fense. He has simply remained silent on the basic issues of the case.

The man who says he grew up in moderate circumstances on a Texas farm and made his first million before he was 30, took the original blows cheerfully.

"I've felt better in the last week than I ever have in my life," he said. "I've always felt that if a man had five real friends he would be real lucky. I've been real lucky."

The original pin which burst the vast financial bubble involved storage tanks for the fertilizer. Mortgages were found on record totaling $34.5 million for 33,500 tanks in 11 West Texas counties. Only a few hundred such tanks are needed in the area. The FBI in charges against Estes and three officials of a manufacturing firm, claims most of the tanks don't exist.

The probe spread, Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, an candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, held six courts of inquiry. One of many points covered involved possible improper influence by Estes with Agriculture Department employees.

William E. Morris, an Agriculture Department employee, was fired because he failed to make himself available to department investigators looking into allegations Estes accompanied several officials on shopping tours in Dallas for expensive clothing. Morris' wife quit her job as parttime secretary to Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Oklahoma. Emery E. Jacobs, deputy administrator of the agricultural stabilization and conservation service, quit his job but denied any wrongdoing.

The names of governors, senators and congressmen and other high federal officials have been mentioned in the case—either in print or privately.

The Republican National Committee said Estes was appointed to the National Cotton Advisory Committee by President Kennedy.

"Loaded with political TNT, an FBI probe now under way may yet come to rest on the doorstep of the White House," said the committee's publication, "Battle Line."

No mention has been made of the White House or the President in extensive testimony, however.

Estes did claim, a witness testified, that he could telephone Vice President Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Johnson would quash an FBI investigation. But the investigation continued.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., started a probe with his Senate Investigations Committee. The General Accounting Office began looking into the matter for the House Inter-Governmental Relations Sub-Committee.

Meanwhile Sen. John Williams, R-Del., introduced a resolution asking for investigation of cotton allotment transfers as well.

No one will venture a guess where it will end. Hardly a day goes by without new developments. Even now a staff member of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee is in Austin examining records. A decision whether to hold public hearings is expected in three or four days.

It may be years before anyone knows the financial jumble's full impact on West Texas agricultural economy, individual farmers, the leading companies and possibly persons in Washington—all the thousands of persons touched in one way or another by Estes' fabulous life.

3. A rule providing for advance notice of five working days before employees are dismissed due to force reductions. The unions had asked for six-month advance notice, but the board said this would amount to a job freeze for unnecessary employees.

4. Establishment of a labor-management study group, with representatives of the public participating, to evaluate pay differentials between jobs. The board said there is too little difference between skilled and unskilled worker pay rates resulting in loss of incentive morale.

5. Finally, creation of a labor-management committee, perhaps with public representatives helping, to work on repairing the labor relations status of the industry. This group would discuss problems affecting the rail industry or the employees or both sufficiently in advance to anticipate solutions and forestall crisis.

Money from the bond issue is also expected to improve the high school vocational training program. The board proposes to build and equip a shop, 40 x 60 feet, attached to the present high school building.

"Since less than one-third of our graduates will go to college, it is important that they have mechanical drawing and machine shop training to equip those not college-bound for industry," the board declares.

Board Cites Emergency

The United School Board feels that the bond issue is so vital to the boys and girls of the United District that alternate solutions to the problems must be faced. Mr. Blythe, said today. Realizing that it will be two years before the classrooms can be built, the board has considered the possibility of requesting the use of the Hanover Legion Hall, grange halls, and church facilities until proper classrooms can be provided.

"Some consideration has also been given to the revamping of the high school auditorium for use as classrooms and discontinuance of home basketball games."

"Should the suggested facilities come into use, the board feels that the public should be advised that cafeteria service will be curtailed, or discontinued, at the rented buildings."

"The School Board knows that the only remedy for the difficult situation is the passage of the bond issue and it is asking each voter to consider carefully the future of the children in the United School District."

Truck Blast Kills Driver In Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — A booby-trapped gasoline truck loaded with fuel blew up with a roar today on heights above the Moslem Casbah quarter, setting fire to more than a dozen vehicles and several nearby houses.

The driver was killed but there were no early reports of other casualties.

Flaming gasoline was hurled onto the walls of the houses, mostly occupied by Moslems living outside the Casbah.

A thick towering cloud of black smoke drifted over the center of the city.

The truck blew up several blocks from the narrow entrance into the Casbah where 80,000 Moslems make their homes. An angry mob of Moslems quickly circled the area.

The terrorist Secret Army Organization which vows to keep Algeria French was blamed by officials for the latest vehicle booby-trap.

Wednesday a booby-trapped car blew up, killing 62 Moslem dock workers and wounding more than 100 others.

The explosion occurred early in the afternoon after a series of secret army terrorist attacks left 12 Moslems dead and five wounded.

Earlier troops and riot police sealed off a section of the city which has had a high rate of terrorist attacks and began house-to-house searches. The identities of many of the 20,000 persons living in the area, known as the "drill ground" quarter, were being checked by security forces.

Police decreed a curfew in the closed-off section, and refused to say how long the blockade would last.

Only pharmacies, bakeries and other food shops were allowed to open—for two hours in the morning—and only women were authorized to leave their homes to buy. Doctors living in the quarter were given permission to go out only for professional calls.

The crackdown came after terrorists killed 104 or more persons in Algiers Wednesday. The toll in Algiers dropped to nine dead and nine wounded Thursday, and elsewhere in Algeria five persons were killed and 16 wounded. Most of the victims were Moslems.

The Algerian rebel government meanwhile called on the French government to ignore sentimentality and legality and wipe out the European underground.

Rusk

A informed source said Rusk dealt at length with Berlin, East-West relations, nuclear testing and disarmament.

The source said Rusk expressed a feeling that the Soviet Union, while still unwilling to give in on questions of principle, did not want to provoke a major crisis.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain spoke in a similar vein. He was quoted as saying the current Soviet attitude could stem from troubles with agricultural production at home and with Red China abroad.

Birds do not usually begin incubating their eggs until the full complement has been laid. Otherwise the resulting young would be of different ages and sizes, and the larger ones would get all the food.

Judgments End 70 Lawsuits In Voting Dispute

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Consent judgments in federal court have ended lawsuits against 70 landowners accused of evicting Negro sharecroppers who joined a voter registration drive.

The judgments, rendered Wednesday, restrain 50 of the white landowners from violating the 1957 Civil Rights Act. Charges against the other 20 were dropped. All defendants lived in Haywood County, Tenn.

The settlement between the landowners and the Justice Department ended more than a year of litigation in federal courts. Negotiations for a settlement of similar charges against 80 landowners and a bank in Fayette County, Tenn., reportedly are under way.

The Haywood landowners agreed not to interfere with or take economic reprisals against Negroes who try to register to vote in the future, and the government was to drop its federal court orders against the landowners.

The case had been set for trial next Monday.

The dispute began in 1960 when the government filed complaints against the landowners charging them with coercing and intimidating Negroes who tried to register as voters.

The complaints accused the landowners of terminating tenant leases, barring some Negroes from jobs, refusing to sell them provisions, and cutting off sources of credit.

A federal injunction issued April 20, 1961, prohibited 34 landowners from evicting Negro tenant farmers if it was done because of their voter registration activity.

Buzhardt Baffles Bombers As Chisox Post 1-0 Win

Detroit Bows To Angels 6-4

Boston, Minnesota Also Win; Tribe Idle

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
John Buzhardt, streak-snapper, also is quite a show-stopper.
The Chicago White Sox right-hander stopped the show Thursday night, baffling the New York Yankees for a 1-0, five-hit victory and adding to his reputation as a streak-breaker by cutting off the American League leaders' victory string at seven games.
Buzhardt, 25, whose major achievement in four previous seasons had been the triumph that snapped Philadelphia's 23-game losing skid during the 1961 campaign, brought his record to 4-1 with his fourth consecutive win for the White Sox.

While Buzhardt was blanking the Yanks and lowering his earned run average for the last four games to a remarkable 1.32, the White Sox managed only six hits off Whitey Ford and Marshall Bridges. But Jim Landis accounted for the game-winner with his sixth homer, in the fourth inning.

Elsewhere in the AL, Norm Siebern's foul fly drove in the winning run as Kansas City knocked off Detroit 6-4. Don Mincher's grand slam homer carried Minnesota to an 8-4 decision over Baltimore and Boston ended a five-game losing string by beating Washington 7-4. Cleveland and Los Angeles were not scheduled.

Buzhardt struck out three, walked only one and had little trouble with the Yankees powerful line-up except for rookie shortstop Tom Tresh, who stroked a single and double. Buzhardt also snapped another streak by ending Bobby Richardson's 17-game hitting string. Ford (2-1) allowed four hits in seven innings and Bridges permitted two.

Siebern, who got the A's rolling with a two-run homer in the first, knocked in another run in the fifth with a single before delivering a long foul in the seventh that snapped a 4-4 tie when Bobby DeGrego scammed home from third after the catch. The win went to Diego Segui (2-0). Rookie Doug Gallagher (0-2) lost it despite home runs by Norm Cash and Billy Bruns.

Mincher's second grand slam of the season shot the Twins into the lead in the first inning. But they needed another four-run upsurge in the third—on Bernie Allen's three-run homer and a circuit shot by pitcher Jack Kralick—to subdue the Orioles. Kralick (1-2), tagged for a homer by Gus Triandos, won it with Ray Moore's one-inning relief. Milt Pappas (2-1) took the loss.

Home runs by Ed Bressoud and Jim Pagliaroni plus three runs batted in by Pete Runnels with three singles peaked the Red Sox against the Senators, who lost their 14th in 15 games. Bill Monbouquette (2-2) needed Dick Radatz' ninth relief held to nail the victory. The loser was rookie Jim Hannon (0-2).

NBA Directors Meet To Discuss Warriors Moving

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association board of directors, stumped for 13 hours Thursday on a request to move the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco, will try to resolve their difficulties again today.

Although none of the directors nor league president Maurice Podoloff would comment, one of the principal bones of contention appeared to be:

What to do with Philadelphia? Directors representing New York, Boston and Syracuse are known to be opposed to any plan which would leave Philadelphia without an NBA team. They held enough votes to block the proposed sale and transfer of the Warriors to San Francisco.

Philadelphia owner Eddie Gottlieb asked the directors to approve the sale—including superstar Wilt Chamberlain—to a San Francisco group headed by Bernard Solomon. The sale price is reported to be $850,000.

Gottlieb has made bids to purchase the present Chicago, Detroit or Syracuse franchises and move them to Philadelphia, to replace the Warriors. At least Syracuse rejected the offer.

Former Critics Are Muzzled By Hiller's Fielding, Hitting

By DICK BARNES

Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—When San Francisco Manager Alvin Dark handed Chuck Hiller the Giants' second base job this spring, the boss and his protegee were almost alone in thinking the Giants shouldn't trade for a "real" second baseman.

After all, said the experts, didn't Hiller blow the same chance last year? And when the balding 26-year-old let a few Cactus League rollers through his legs, the critics were sure the Giants infield would unglue at second base.

Hiller's detractors aren't talking now.
Hiller's bat and glove are. And the pleasant young man from McHenry, Ill., is thanking Dark for making it all possible: "Without that man," he says, "I wouldn't be here now."

The Giants might not be where they are, either—in first place with a nine-game winning streak. Hiller is hitting .293 instead of the .238 he stroked before going to the minors in mid-1961.

"Just playing every day makes me within 48 hours.

a difference in my shape," he says. "Last year I'd sit on the bench a few days and pick up three or four pounds. But now I'm steady at 170."
"Just another year's experience is the whole story," says Dark. "Chuck is doing a real fine job for us."

Hiller's fielding has reversed. Last year the easy ones often got away. Not this year, and he's made the tough plays as well.

Chicago Offers Million For Patterson Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Promoters of the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight have been guaranteed $1 million if they decide to hold the bout in Chicago.
Manny Skar, a Chicago hotel man, said Thursday night he and a group of Chicago businessmen have made the offer to "some people close to Patterson."

The promoters, Championship Sports Inc., said Chicago remains the leading contender among 10 interested cities. The spokesman said a decision on the site could be made within 48 hours.

Leetonia Win Only 4 1sts In 14 Events

Coach Ike Farrah's Leetonia tracksters scored heavily in the field events but could manage only one other first as they were trampled by visiting Youngstown South 80-38 in a dual track meet Thursday evening.

The ears placed first in three of the five field events, but Paul Conrad was the only Bear to claim a win in the running portion of the meet. Conrad was the first person this season to beat South's Benny Forrest as the former flew over the low hurdles in 22.2.

Guy Falzetta threw the discus a distance of 115-5 to claim that event, while Joe Gallo heaved the shot 43-2 to better teammate Al Vignon.

Leetonia's only other win was in the high jump, as Russ Lehman and Mike Burgess tied for first, clearing the bar at 5-4.

Coach Farrah will send his thin-clads into action again on Monday against Woodrow Wilson and West Branch's Warriors at Leetonia.

After Series of On-Again Off-Again Moves

Ohio's 17th North-South HS Grid Game Seems Certainty

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 17th North-South high school football game, scheduled Aug. 10 at Canton, appeared a certainty today after a series of on-again off-again moves.

The annual Rebel-Yankee classic was ruled out last year when the Ohio High School Athletic Association declined to approve it, as required under a National Collegiate Athletic Association edict.

The NCAA had ruled that boys appearing in games not sanctioned by state high school ruling bodies would lose a year of collegiate eligibility.

Then the NCAA decided to set up a committee to act on games over which state associations, as in Ohio's case, said they had no jurisdiction. The NCAA committee, organized a few weeks ago, turned down Ohio's bid for the annual game until certain conditions were met.

The big stumbling block was town, the 1961 Class AA football that $5,000 death, injury and travel insurance be set up for the 23-boy squads, and director Jim Robinson told the sponsoring Ohio High School Football Coaches Association Thursday night that the insurance plan had been approved.

Bron Bacevich, retiring president of the coaches from Cincinnati Roger Bacon, rushed the new request to the NCAA immediately after the meeting—and said full approval was practically a certainty.

Dave Martin of Cuyahoga Falls, who was supposed to take over the presidency of the coaches association today, resigned at Thursday night's session. He became ineligible for the post due to an upcoming transfer to Oak Harbor as the high school's executive head—where one of his first jobs will be signing a new football coach.

Martin's resignation moved Glenn (Tiger) Ellison of Middleburgh, who finished second in the December voting for the coaching berths, moved in as head of the Yankee forces. He'll pick three assistants, one of whom must be from a Class A school.

Carl (Ducky) Schroeder of Massillon was elected secretary-treasurer for the 17th straight year. Another resignation marred the all-star game plans. Eddie Wentz, veteran mentor of Akron St. Vincent, turned down the job as head coach of the Northern All-Stars. Lateness of a formal O.K. for the game, and the fact he acts as a golf professional during the summer, were given by Wentz as reasons for refusing the post.

Bill Van Brocklin of Poland, who finished second in the December voting for the coaching berths, moved in as head of the Yankee forces. He'll pick three assistants, one of whom must be from a Class A school.

McManus, Formerly of A's, Big Hit In Japanese League

TOKYO (AP)—By his own admission, Jim McManus, formerly of the Kansas City Athletics, never had it so good.

The first baseman from Chestnut Hill, Mass., quit the Pacific Coast League Hawaii Islanders this year to throw in his lot with the Taiyo Whales of Japan's Central League.

Last year the Whales wound up in the cellar. So far this year, they are riding high.

Perhaps McManus has something to do with it. It's too early to say.

But he has made a big hit over here.

Seated in the living room of his new, two-bedroom bungalow in Tokyo—the Whales built it specially for him—the 25-year-old McManus summed up his reasons for being here:

"I wanted a chance to see the Orient. And the compensation is good."

How good McManus wouldn't divulge, but he added "I couldn't have been treated better if I was with the (New York) Yankees."

McManus is one of the Whales' three foreign players—the limit allowed a Japanese team under commission rules.

Asked what he thinks of Japanese players, McManus replied: "They're a lot better than I had expected, especially the pitchers. They have excellent control and seem to work the ball in and out better than back home."

But he finds American and Japanese fans very different. "Japanese fans," he said, "are very loyal and stay on the side of their team, whether it's first or third base."

Language hasn't presented a problem to Jim.

"The Whales always have an interpreter for me who explains everything carefully. That's how I learn the signs and my schedule. They couldn't be more considerate."

Simmons Pitches Cards to 4-0 Victory Over Colts

As Jockeys Battle for Inside Position

Winner In Kentucky Derby May Be Decided In 1st Turn

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Derby will be run for the 88th time over 1 1/4 miles Saturday at Churchill Downs. But the result could well hang on what takes place three-eighths of a mile from the starting point.

It will be every horse for himself when the 16 or 17 finely-tuned 3-year-olds charge into the first turn, seeking a vantage point for the long run down the backstretch and then into the final quarter-mile leading to fame and fortune.

The draw for positions in the $125,000-added classic placed the two stickouts—C. T. Chenery's Sir Gaylord and Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan—on the far outside. And near the rail, side-by-side, will be Townsend B. Martin's Sunrise County and Fred Hooper's Admiral's Voyage, bitter bumping rivals of the recent Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

The starting positions of Sir Gaylord, 8-5 favorite, Ridan, 5-2 second choice, and the highly regarded Sunrise County and Admiral's Voyage were the topic of conversation today of many Derby fans.

Post time is 4:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time. Nation-wide the race can be seen on CBS television from 4:15-4:45 p.m. and heard on radio during the same period.

The weatherman's promise is clear skies, temperatures up to 70 degrees and a fast track. Even though much depends on the dash to the first turn, jockey Willie Shoemaker for one isn't worried. He'll be up on Sunrise County.

Cassey Hayes, Sir Gaylord's trainer who participated in the post position drawing, appeared almost happy over where his Derby favorite landed. Sir Gaylord will be ridden by Milo Valenuela, who won on Tim Tam in 1958.

But trainer Leroy Jolley wasn't feeling so good over No. 14 position drawn by the fast breaking Ridan.

"I would have much rather have No. or 5," he said. Manuel Ycaza pilots Ridan.

Although 18 were named for the race, there will be no more than 17 starters and perhaps only 16.

Cicada, classy 3-year-old filly filly stablemate of Sir Gaylord, was entered but merely as insurance in event something should happen to the stable's male star.

Verne Winchell's Donut King, one of the standout 2-year-olds of 1961 but who has failed to win in three outings this year, is suffering from an infection of the left hind foot. A decision whether to run the colt could wait until 45 minutes before post time, the deadline for scratching.

With 18 entries and 17 starters the value of the race will be $164,650 with the winner earning $122,150. Only one other Derby winner ever banked more. That was Needles, who picked up $123,450 after his 1956 victory.

Second is guaranteed $25,000, third $12,500 and fourth $5,000.

In the early line prepared by the program handicapper, Sunrise County was made the third choice at 6-1 followed by Fred Turner Jr.'s Sir Ribot (8-1) and Admiral's Voyage (15-1).

Giants Win 9th In Row; Blast Pittsburgh 8-4

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Granted the St. Louis Cardinals were given a chance in the National League race this year. But who ever thought a longshot like Curt Simmons would be a big factor in keeping them in the picture?

Simmons, 32, Thursday night pitched the Cards to a 4-0 victory over Houston's Colts. He spaced seven hits for his fourth win in four starts—all complete games. St. Louis managed just four hits against rookie Dave Giusti (0-3) and Dick Farrell, but they included Bill White's two-run homer, Curt Flood's solo homer and a run-scoring double by Ken Boyer.

By winning the Cards kept pace with San Francisco's Giants, who took their ninth in a row, 8-4 over Pittsburgh. The result left the Giants with a 1 1/2 game lead over the Cardinals.

In the NL's only other game, Philadelphia nipped Milwaukee 9-8 on Clay Dalrymple's ninth inning single.

Simmons, a star member of St. Louis' front-line pitching corps, has compiled impressive figures this year—25 hits and five walks in 36 innings, and an earned run average of 1.25.

Thursday night against Houston, Simmons didn't allow more than one hit an inning. White gave him some breathing room with the homer in the first, Flood connected in the third, and the Colts were dealt another tough setback.

Jumping on losing reliever Harvey Haddix (1-1) in the eighth, the Giants broke a 4-4 tie on an error and singles by Jim Davenport and Chuck Hiller. Willie Mays delivered two more when he doubled for his third hit of the day, and Orlando Cepeda brought in Mays with a single.

Pittsburgh counted two-run homers by Dick Schofield and Larry Elliot among the five hits they got off Jack Sanford (3-1). The Giants peppered four Buc pitchers for 16.

Dalrymple ended the wild one between the Phils and Braves with a single to center in the last of the ninth, sending John Callison home from second. Hank Aaron hit two homers, a triple and a double. His second homer came in the ninth with one on, heisting the Braves into an 8-8 tie.

But the Phils lost little time against Milwaukee's fifth pitcher, Hank Fischer (0-1), in their half of the ninth. Callison led off with a walk, Jackie Davis moved him along with a sacrifice try that went for a single past third, and Dalrymple followed with his game-winning on a 3-2 pitch.

Jack Balschun (1-0) was the winner in relief.

Eagles Drop Sixth Track Meet

United Local Bows To Potters 87-31

Coach Ray Russell's United Local Golden Eagle thinslacks suffered their sixth dual track meet in seven outings Thursday night as they were drubbed 87-31 by the East Liverpool Potters.

The Golden Eagles managed only three firsts of the 14 events. Gene Metzgar copped the 880 run with a time of 2:11, while teammate Glenn Willis hurled the discus 116-1 for a first, and brothers Homer and Jim Sturgeon tied for first in the high jump, clearing the bar at 5-5.

Dave Harriel was the big point-getter for the Potters as he registered wins in three events. The lanky speedster won the 100-yard dash in 10.75 and the 220-yard dash in 23.7, about four yards ahead of United's Bruce Hoyt. His third first was in the half mile relay, along with Bob Parsons, Bill Durbin, and Ed Pruden. East Liverpool's Bob Montgomery won the pole vault with a jump of 9-6, with four vaulters tied for second at 9-3.

United will return to action next Tuesday in a triangular meet at Minerva.

Seven Golfers Tied For Two Top Spots In Tournament

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The old West Virginia slammer, Sam Snead, was evaluating prospects in the $58,000 Tournament of Champions and observed:

"Unless somebody goes crazy out there, there's goin' to be an awful mess of us around the top when this one finishes."

Sam's prophecy came quicker than he suspected. For today the top spot was crowded with four professional golfers, tied at 69, and Snead himself, the defending champion, was deadlocked with three others at 70.

Heading the parade was the usual pre-tournament favorite, Arnold Palmer; the 1959 winner here, Mike Souchak; Cary Middlecoff and Doug Sanders.

Bracketed with Sam were Doug Ford, Joe Campbell and Gay Brewer.

Play is at the par 36-36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course, a test that is not too formidable unless the wind starts acting up. It didn't, and the first round ended with 13 of the select field of 28 listed under par.

Indians Trade Two Pitchers for Tasby

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Cleveland Indians—Rich in outfielders and poor in pitchers—have bought another outfielder and sold two pitchers.

The Indians bought 29-year-old Willie Tasby, a fine defensive fielder but light hitter, from the Washington Senators Thursday night. In exchange, they sent the Senators southpaw hurlers Don Rudolph and Steve Hamilton.

Cleveland now has seven outfielders, which may give Manager Mel McGaha even more room to platoon.

The guess around Cleveland is that the Indians would like to make a trade of one of the "surplus seven" for a starting pitcher. The trading deadline is May 10.

The Indians try to snap their three-game losing spell tonight with unbeaten Dick Donovan (4-0) on the mound against Kansas City rookie Dan Pfister (0-2) in the opener of a four-game set.

SOFTBALL ASSN. TO MEET

The Salem softball association will meet Monday at the Memorial Building at 7:30 p.m. All managers and persons wishing to sponsor a team are urged to attend. The league is slated to open May 14 with May 11 being the deadline for teams to enter.

Lawson Milk Co. Goes Over Top on Blue Law Petitions

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Lawson Milk Co. already has obtained more than the required number of signatures in its drive to clarify Ohio's Sunday closing law by placing a constitutional amendment on the ballot in November. This was announced by William Howlett, president of the company at a news conference here today. He said more than 350,000 signatures have been obtained on referendum petitions circulated by the company. The minimum requirement is 328,413.
Howlett emphasized, however, that the signatures had not been checked by county election boards. He explained the company would continue its drive to offset deletion of signatures that cannot be verified as those of registered voters. The company has until Aug. 8 to file its petitions.
He emphasized that Lawson is not trying to repeal the present closing law, but is trying to bring it up to date to permit the sale on Sunday of items it says are necessities of modern family life.

County Home Levy
Retarded Children School Levy
County Levy

The following facts are presented by the Columbiana County Health and Safety Council to help you vote intelligently.

General Situation in Columbiana County

Like all other business, labor supplies and other costs of government have risen in recent years and will probably continue to rise. Furthermore, the legislature continually adds more expense to county government — usually with no provisions for added income to meet the increased expenses. Examples are the county courts, second common pleas court, and retarded children's school.

As a result, the balance in the General Fund has steadily decreased from $329,000 in 1958 to $59,000 in 1961.

The budget requests for 1962 were $298,000 in excess of estimated income. The County Commissioners cut most departments 15% to balance the budget. Certain expenditures are mandatory and cannot be reduced by the County Commissioners. Among these are the board of elections, soldiers and sailors relief, and the courts.

A study of some other counties with populations similar to that of Columbiana shows that most of the county offices in Columbiana County are being operated on expenditures average or below that of similar counties.

Of the total tax rate, 2.20 mills go into the General Fund from which most expenses of county offices are paid. This rate has not been increased for more than twenty years.

County Home Levy

The Columbiana County Home is being operated at expenditures much below that of most similar counties. Certain repairs and improvements must be made. An addition must be built to the hospital to care for patients.

Of the inmates in the County Home, about 45% are hospital cases. The .7 mill levy is for operation, maintenance, and new construction. The principal items are an expansion of hospital facilities and a new sewage disposal system as required by the State Board of Health.

Retarded Children School Levy

The last legislature enacted legislation providing that County Government must maintain schools for retarded children. The proposed levy of .2 mill is to meet this additional cost. Three classes are now being conducted at Elkton; the need is for at least twice as many. This program is under the Welfare Department and does not receive funds from the usual sources for public schools.

County Levy

The .8 mill levy is to provide additional funds for county expenses. The situation is particularly serious in some departments. For example, the 1962 cut in the sheriff's budget necessitated a reduction of two employees.

With the rapid growth in population outside of municipalities in which police protection is provided, it would seem that in the interests of safety, additional rather than less personal, should be provided in the sheriff's office.
